

Willow

The Willow tree has thin, oval leaves with pointed tips.

The white, woolly seeds that we often see blowing around the yard come from the Willow tree.

Bees, insects and butterflies love to eat these seeds.

Its branches are soft and yellow.

